

Walking the Wire

Michael E. Stone

August 2008

A boy was walking on the highwire,
Holding a long pole in his hands,
Moving daintily along the line,
Gracefully hoarding balance.

Brown face, dark hair, smiling,
High enough to really hurt on falling,
But steady, surely, stepping,
From end to end, post to post.