

ARMENIAN POETRY PROJECT

ՀԱՅ ԲԱՆԱՄՍԵՂՇՈՒԹԵԱՆ ՀԱՄԱՑԱՆՑԸ: PROJET DE POÉSIE ARMÉNIENNE

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 08, 2013

Michael E. Stone: In Dilijan

Do I have anything to say
these days?
Long together and
now apart, gone.

My state so common
that each lives it
yet mine is unique -- it's mine,
and worthy of a poem
or like a stye in the eye,
mine and commonplace,
but mine.

I eat
dark red royal basilicum,
regal leaves, kingly flavor,
morosely.

In Dilijan

21-22 September, 2013

POSTED BY LOLA KOUNDAKJIAN AT 10/08/2013 07:02:00 AM 0 COMMENTS

LABELS: CONTEMPORARY, ISRAEL, MICHAEL E. STONE

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 03, 2013

Միամանթո: Սուրբ Մեսրոպ

Ներբողական

SPONSORED BY THE ARMENIAN STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA, INC.

established 1910

FOLLOW BY EMAIL

17

THE ARMENIAN POETRY PROJECT

This website is fully compatible with iPhone, iPod Touch and the iPad.

APP and its producer, Lola Koundakjian, retain the right to accept or reject any poetry submission(s) based on the criteria
provided by the project
description.

Send your comments to armenianpoetryproject[at]gmail[dot]
com

Follow us on Twitter:
armenianpoetry